NOUVELLES NOUVELLES D'ANGLETERRE.

Les nouvelles apportées par le navire Insegnity, de Liverpool, jusqu'au 10 courant, ne sont pas de nature à donner à la France la consolation désirable de voir que la conciliation actuelle n'est pas une de ces paix si honteuses à une nation qui a été assez forte et assez heureuse pour se commander à elle-même, et qui, après avoir vaincu ses ennemis, ne sait pas user de la victoire.

Le Prince Régent pour la seconde fois a ouvert la session du Parlement. Il paraît que la guerre civile et religieuse continue en Irlande, et que le Gouvernement anglais est obligé d'y envoyer de nouvelles troupes. Le Roi de Prusse est arrivé à Londres, et a été reçu avec les honneurs dus à son rang. Le Roi de Wurtemberg est aussi arrivé à Londres, et a été reçu avec les honneurs dus à son rang. Le Roi de Wurtemberg est aussi arrivé à Londres, et a été reçu avec les honneurs dus à son rang.

FRIEND OF THE LAWS, AND
EVENING JOURNAL.
[ENGLAND, TUESDAY, APRIL 16, 1816.

From the National Advocate.

In England—notwithstanding her enormous debt—she is in a state of infinity at home. A very animated debate occurred on the 21st inst. of common consul at Guilford Hall, January 23, on a motion for an address of congratulation to the prince regent on the conclusion of a peace with France, &c. Messrs. Davis, Wythens, Parnell and White, drew such pictures of Republics of Europe, as to fill their cause of congratulation. The present was another picture than a peace, they said—there was no existing of harmony among the nations—that a sense of pressure of calamities had been received by farmers, but the rights of the people were tradition, under foot.

Mr. Tyrrel alike (said Mr. Wilk) have the plenty to warn the seeds of discord, and that at a period of time not far distant, a crisis will be seen. They have joined Republics, of Switzerland and Holland—Prussia and Saxony—Sweden and Norway—Portugal and Germany—entirely at the wishes of the inhabitants of those countries. The knowledge seemed subscription to have escaped them, that men were not ready merely for the purpose of peace. They had placed an ignorant and hopeless stroke on the throne of Bourbons—speaking of that disgrace to human nature, Ferdinand of Spain, he was of all of trust himself—Ferdinand, by the aid of English councils, had been enabled to destroy the liberties of his country. The prince had lifted the veneer of the objects for which they was had been undertaken. The interest of the tribunes had been studied no, but the interests of the people had been neglected—the cause of the Bourbons which alone men are justified in drawing the sword, had been abandoned.

The proposed address condemns the hostile feeling of England, and gives a retrospect of wars for a century past, with a view of it means pressures, and of the public purposes.

Mr. Davis thought that, from the duty taxes in France, and taxation, &c. in Belgium, that there was cause of congratulation. He saw no occasion for the proposed address, especially when national and other importance still was from the scene of the day—the public money was not adopted, but remained in the hands of Civil commotions continued in some of the countries of Italy, and a number of the British troops lately returned from France, had been ordered into those countries.

The French minister of finance had announced that the daily payments of the instalments of the 700 millions continued to be made, with no prospect of delay.

The British army in France was preparing into detachments on the Danube. It had undergone a complete organization and all the battalions were filled to their men each. The Duke of Wellington, of course, is commander in chief. The cavalry is under lord Combermere (Stapleton) and the infantry under lord Hill. The divisions are commanded by lieutenant-generals Sir Lowry Cole, Sir Galbraith, and the brigades by major generals Maitland, Powers, O'Callaghan, Pack, Brisbane, Colville, Kempt, Lambert, and Keane &c.

From London paper.

On the morning of the 14th of February last, two severe shocks of an earthquake were felt at Weston, in the state of Massachusetts. At the time of the earth-quake, the air was calm and intensely cold—many were awakened from sleep by the impression of their houses, or by the mantle-piece trembling. On the city hall, sharp corners or cracks were discovered on the walls, extending to a great distance, and it suddenly was been discovered. Some of these cracks were ascertained to be several feet deep. Similar symptoms were noticed at Roxbury and Farmington. At the former place the shocks were felt about 4 o'clock, A. M.

NOTICE.—It is now required by law having been sub-stored to the Honourable Commissioners of the stockholders' are hereby notified that on election for several persons, and deed, to the act of incorporation, will be held at the city hall, the first instant, between the hours of 12 o'clock, P. M. noon, and 3 o'clock, P.M. at the Exchange Coffee House in Cong. street.

The subscription book will be kept open at the bank of Orleans and Lake other bodies, &c.

Benj. Hayward, Francis Boyd, Simon Stackpole, Gardiner, Stephen Lord.

CIRCUS.—By permission of the Mayor.

Mr. Cayetano M. Stevens, manager of the equestrian company, has the honor to inform the ladies and gentlemen of this city, town, and its vicinity, that his first representation will take place

THIS EVENING, APRIL 16,

When he hopes, by his exertions to please and choice of feats of his company, to merit their favors, and to give general satisfaction to those who may honour him with their company.

This brilliant exhibition will commence with the Grand Entrée by 6 Ladies in full uniform.

Master Charles will astonish the spectators by many feats, difficult for a youth of his age.

Mr. Spence will give his best endeavors to entertain, to the amusement of the company.

The laughable scene of Madame Angot will be performed by Mr. Brown and Master Charles.

Mr. La Coba (to the charmers of a dance) will perform many feats of buffoonery and will vaulting.

Mr. Cayetano will perform the much admired scene of the "Drunken Soldier" and perform the original entrée, as he has borne being in full speech.

Mr. Duke will introduce the double horse Coba, which will place himself in different attitudes, and partake of a collation with his master!

ACT II.

Mr. Bogdoes will perform several feats of horsemanship with and without the reins, and will ride on his toes, his knees, back & in full speed.

Mr. Duke will perform many astonishing feats, both of vaulting and leaping over well mounted, by riding on his head his feet in the air.

Mr. Cayetano will do his utmost to give general satisfaction in the audience, by performing several feats of feed horse mastship; and will seat himself in a chair on the back of his horse, and will keep over four rhinoceros with his feet tied.

The Grand Entrée by the persons on two horses.

Mr. and Theophile Excellus, by Mr. La Coba, who will throw several somersets over several horses, and he and horse will surprise the audience by throwing somersets over six horses. To conclude with the extraordinary leap through a hoop at 20 ft.

The whole to conclude with the laughable scene of the "Cobler's Frolic or my other brother," by Messrs. Cayetano, La Coba, Spence, and Brigodes.

Mr. Cayetano begs the public that the only place where boxes can be engaged is at the office of the circus, from 10 o'clock until 3.

Doors to be opened at 6, and the performance to commence at 7 o'clock.

Box Tickets, $1—Pit and Gallery 75 cents—Children under 10 years old, 50 cents. Tickets to be had at the office of the Circus. 16 april PARISH Court, April 13, 1816—Present the Hon. James Pitot.

Joseph Gaitne vs. his creditors.

Upon reading and filing the tableau of distribution of the estate in this case, and upon motion of J. B.
